

The Principal's Perspective: Happenings at Johnson Elementary

4th Grade Wax Museum

Students from the 4th grade opened their Wax Museum to the public last Thursday. The afternoon show was a great experience for other Johnson students to learn about our famous Kentuckians and to see some excellent public speaking/presentation skills. The evening performance was for our parents and community and served as a fund raiser for the 4th grade service learning project. The event was a great success as everyone enjoyed the day and the students raised over $1100 for their charity (still to be decided by the class).

GREAT JOB 4TH GRADE STUDENTS!!

2012-2013 Kindergarten Registration

Registration for kindergarten students will be held Thursday, February 16 from 8:00 to 3:00

Yearbook Pictures

This year, the company that prints the yearbooks, Lifetouch, has a new on-line feature where parents can submit images for consideration for use in the Johnson Yearbook. It is called the Community Upload Library. This would be our preferred method for receiving images from the Johnson families and teachers. To submit pictures for consideration, please do the following:

- Go to <http://community.lifetouch.com>
- If you are signing in for the first time, enter the following access code in the field in the New Users window: OGLZTH, then click the Get Started button.

Everything from there should be self-explanatory. If you have any questions, please send me an e-mail to johnsonyearbook@insightbb.com and I will reply as quickly as I can.

Click the Submit All button when you have entered all of your information and you are done!

WINTER COATS

Winter weather is here but we still go outside for recess on most days. Please help us continue this important time of so-cial interaction and move-ment by making sure your child has on appropriate winter clothing each day.
