

QUESTIONS FOR STUDENT CONVERSATIONS

The questions below will be used to start the conversations. You are encouraged to bring additional thoughts and concerns to the meeting you attend.

- 1) What attracted you to NKU? Now that you are here, are you glad you chose NKU? Is NKU what you expected? If not, how so?
- 2) What are the University's strengths and weaknesses? What is NKU doing well now? Are there things the University needs to start or stop doing?
- 3) Do we offer an environment in which all students can thrive and succeed? If not, what do we need to do differently?
- 4) How can NKU help the northern Kentucky region be an even better place to live and work?
- 5) How does NKU support your efforts to be actively engaged in your community? What else can we do?
- 6) In NKU's Vision Statement, we aspire to be a "preeminent university". What does this mean to you? What would it take for NKU to become a preeminent university?
- 7) Do you think we are too focused or not focused enough at NKU? If too much, what else should we be doing? If not enough, what should we stop doing?
- 8) How optimistic are you about the future of NKU and its capacity to make a difference in our students, this region, and the Commonwealth?
- 9) What key thing would you change to make NKU a better place for you as a student?
- 10) Your questions:

Question about the SACS Self-Study:

As part of the Southern Association of College and Schools (SACS) self-study, the university will be selecting a theme for its Quality Enhancement Plan (QEP). The QEP must focus on a five-year plan to improve student learning. To begin our conversation about this plan, consider the following question.

What does every NKU student need to know to succeed in a global society?
