Course Description: The history and philosophy of humanism--Greek, Renaissance and Modern. Comparison of humanistic psychology with other perspectives in Psychology. Study of humanistic theories of personality--Allport, Rogers, Maslow, Jung, Fromm, Frankl, and Perls. Discussion of central themes in humanistic psychology – personal experience, individual identity, human nature, man's search for meaning, freedom of choice, responsibility for consequences, personal values, moral courage, and the human potential for growth.

Student Learning Outcomes: Student learning outcomes include knowledge and application of models of the healthy personality. Students will develop the ability to comprehend, analyze, synthesize and evaluate relevant literature in humanistic psychology.

Course Resources:
2) Book Report – due February 15
3) Required Workbook: Personality Theories - Journeys into Self: An Experiential Workbook – due March 2

Method of Instruction: Participative; lecture, discussion, and experience-based learning.

Methods of Assessing Student Learning:
1) Mid-term evaluation will be based on 6 quizzes (30% of grade) requiring knowledge and comprehension of models of the healthy personality.
2) Individual/group presentations - class presentations require analysis, synthesis, and evaluation of key theories of humanistic psychology (30% of grade). Evaluation is based upon knowledge, preparation, and quality of presentation.

3) Book Report: Every Life is Worth a Novel (10% of grade). Evaluation is based on knowledge and application of related literature in humanistic psychology.

4) Final exam (30% of grade) will be used to assess comprehension and application of theories of personality to such subjects as identity, meaning, freedom, responsibility, courage, and the human potential for growth.

Student Requirements:

1) Class attendance and homework assignments are required because of the design of the course. Participation is important. Two (2) unexcused absences will lower the final course grade by one letter grade.

2) Attendance at all quizzes is required unless extenuating and documented circumstances occur; for example, an accident or serious illness (with a doctor's excuse). Eligible make-up quizzes will be given at the mid-term exam period, February 15.

All students must meet the same requirements.

NOTE: Students with disabilities (sight, hearing, etc.)—please call this to my attention so assistance can be provided.

NOTE: This syllabus should be viewed as a working plan for the semester. Unforeseen circumstances may necessitate changes in the plan during the course of the term. Changes will be at the discretion of the instructor in consultation with the class.

NOTE: One core value held by the Department of Psychology is the importance of effective writing. Our expectation for students in Psychology courses is that written assignments be prepared according to accepted college-level standards for English usage, including grammar, punctuation, spelling, sentence structure, and composition. That is, students will be expected to proofread, edit, and correct their own work in these areas prior to submitting assignments for grading and evaluation. Examples of these assignments may include, but are not limited to, research papers, article summaries, group projects, class papers, take-home essay examinations, and independent study projects. Assignments that do not appear to have been proofread, edited, and corrected prior to submission may be returned to the student for revision before grading, at the discretion of the instructor, or may receive a lower grade that reflects the level of writing skills demonstrated. Experience suggests that writing clearly, concisely, and compellingly requires thought and organization. Give yourself time to organize, draft, revise, and proofread. The requirement of using the library/writing lab resources will be assigned during the course of the semester.

Student Honor Code:

The work you will do in this course is subject to the Student Honor Code (http://www.nku.edu/~deanstudents/). The Honor Code is a commitment to the highest degree of ethical integrity in academic conduct, a commitment that, individually and collectively, the students of NKU will not lie, cheat, or plagiarize to gain an academic advantage over fellow students or avoid academic requirements.

Instructor and Course Evaluations

Northern Kentucky University takes Instructor and Course Evaluations very seriously. It is an important responsibility of NKU students as citizens of the University to participate in the instructor and course evaluation process. During the two weeks* prior to the end of each semester classes, you will be asked to reflect upon what you have learned in this course, the extent to which you have invested the necessary effort to maximize your learning, and the role your instructor has played in the learning process. It is very important that you complete the online evaluations with thoughtfully written comments.

Starting Spring semester 2011, the students who complete an evaluation for a particular course (or opt out of doing so in the evaluation) will be rewarded for their participation by having access to their course grade as soon as that grade is submitted by the instructor. On the other hand, any student who does not complete the course evaluation (or opt out of doing so in the evaluation) should expect to incur a two week delay in access to his or her course grade beyond the university's official date for grade availability.

To complete online evaluations go to http://eval.nku.edu. Click on "student login" and use the same USERNAME and PASSWORD as used on campus.

*Eight-week classes will be given one week before classes end to complete evaluations.
